

LIVE MUSIC

Dear all,

Once again as we work our way towards the end of the school year, the Forest Arts Music Hub music team is preparing an exciting programme to tour the primary schools of Walsall.

Our musicians are getting ready with a 45 minute interactive music education show, where children can see and hear the various instruments they can learn to play.

Led by the incredibly talented James Maddison, the musicians work closely with the children in interactive workshops including a wide range of live music and active participation. It offers the chance for our children to experience high-quality performances in an environment in which they are comfortable. Our enthusiasm and vision is based on the passion of our team of musicians to inspire through education, reinforced by the joyful response we get from the children.

Our 'Live Music' values

- * To lead children enthusiastically into the great world of music.
- * To captivate, educate, enrich, and inspire young people through a cultural understanding of the wide range of musics.
- * To build new bridges between the music of the past and present, the children of today, and the audiences of tomorrow.
- * To change the world through the power of music.

Subsidised by the Arts Council of England and supported by Forest Arts Music Education Hub, the performance costs just £50.
